Man Who Faked Death Gets 2 Years

WARRENTON, Va. (AP) - A man was sentenced to two years in prison for faking his death three times to beat drunken driving charges.

Peter C. Gentry, a 41-year-old financial planner, got caught after a police officer who made one of the drunken driving arrests spotted him running a stop sign after Gentry had supposedly died.

Gentry was sentenced on Wednesday.

He was first arrested in 1991, but an official-looking death certificate sent to authorities said he had died in a Los Angeles auto crash, and the case was dismissed.

In 1994, he was arrested again and sent in another death certificate.

A year later, Gentry was again arrested and supposedly died this time of "denzor hemorrhagic fever" in Africa. There is no such disease.
